

MD – Family and Sports Medicine

He received his undergraduate degree in Bio-Medical Chemistry and Medical Doctorate from Oral Roberts University. He completed his residency through the nationally ranked Florida Hospital system.

He is the Executive Medical Director for a wellness based practice in the Orlando area. He is board certified in Family Medicine and Sports Medicine and has served as a consulting physician to the Orlando Magic for over 10 years as well as other professional teams in Orlando. He has been videotaped as one of the featured physicians on Trinity Broadcast Network's Doctor-to-Doctor show.

His professional interests center around the optimization of health rather than simply controlling the symptoms of disease. His medical treatment programs are designed around you, the patient, as the most important person of your health care team. He uniquely blends the time-honored truths of health with the latest in medical technology.

His statement to others is "I have found the LENSport program in my practice to be very effective in the treatment of executives wishing to optimize performance and focus, as well as athletes with varying degrees of traumatic brain injury which often times going undiagnosed until the LENSport evaluation is completed."

He goes on to say "On a more personal note, I suffered a traumatic brain injury, secondary to being hit by a car while on a training ride. The LENSport for me has been nothing short of miraculous."

The LENSport program, in my opinion, is essential for any athletic program as well as individuals who are required to function at very high levels of efficiency.
